DESTRUCTIVE PRAIRIE FIRE

One Life Lost and Another in Grave Condition in Hospital.

One life is lost and another is seriously endangered is the report brought in by Mr. Chas. Park, of Berry Creek, of a prairie fire in that neighborhood.

Mr. Segelstoe, a Swede, was plowing his fireguard when the first signs of the fire became apparent, which originated west of Medicine Hat, on Wednesday morning. He left his niece Mary Segelstoe, to check the flames by continuing the ploughing of the fireguard. Segelstoe sped off to assist the assembled homesteaders in fighting the flames. The smoke was so suffocating that by the time he reached the scene he fell senseless before the rapidly advancing flames had reached him.

Miss Mary Segelstoe, who was taken to Bassano by Mr. Park, is now in the Calgary Hospital, Calgary, suffering from very serious burns, and who was left to plow the fireguard, is the victim of stern devotion to duty. It was but a the last moment that she left the team to take the one remaining chance of escape. She was easily caught by the flames. Dr. Stewart attended to her wounds at Bassano.

Mrs. Segeltoe, with three others took shelter in the cellar under the tent, which was burnt over their heads.

The horses were so badly burnt it is feared they will die.

Mr. J. W. Foster lost about 10 tons of hay.

Mr. Park had to work hard to save his place, backfiring for hours. He had the good luck to save over 75 head of horses that were in the immediate track of the fire.

It is estimated that the area will cover 150 miles.

INCORPORATION

Mr. E. Griesbach informs us that while in Edmonton attending the ceremonies of the laying of the corner stone of the parliament buildings, he made inquiry regarding the incorporation of this town and ascertained that no papers had been forwarded from here and that no word had been received by the government in regard to incorporation up to that time.

Mr. J. Johnson informs us that the papers were handed to the solicitors some time ago.

After boring for over a year for natural gas at Lethbridge that city has given it up and now are prepared to hand it over to a private company. Gleichen may now be considered in luck to have given a company the first opportunity to spend the necessary money although we are in direct lines between two wells east and west of us.

The annual meeting of the Gleichen branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society was held on on Tuesday. Lovely weather favored the afternoon meeting at Canon Stocken's house on the Reserve. A party of between twenty and thirty assembled on the lawn. After reading of the Scriptures and prayers the chairman, Dr. Rose, called upon the secretary for his report. This proved most interesting. About $61 has been collected by the local branch during the past year. The officers were re-elected and a collection was taken on behalf of the society. Canon and Miss Stocken entertained the visitors to tea. Refreshment and ice cream were served and all present voted the occasion to have been both pleasant and profitable.

The fourth annual session of the Dry Farming Congress will be held in Billings, Montana, on October 26, 27 and 28, 1909, and will be a notable event. The Montana Board of Control of the fourth Congress is preparing to entertain one of the largest and best conventions in Western history and to give one of the most interesting expositions ever held. None but dry land products will be exhibited, and several nations have already indicated a desire to be represented with delegates and exhibits.

The astronomers say that Halley's Comet will collide with this planet sometime this winter. The people in the northern part of the earth need not worry as to the consequences as they will all be in the frozen area.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING SERVICES

On Sunday last the annual harvest thanksgiving services were held in St. Andrew's church. Good congregations were present at both services. The little edifice, one of the oldest in the Northwest was very prettily decorated for the occasion. Gifts of fruit, grain, flowers and vegetables had been sent to the church and were artistically arranged by the following: Mesdames Castle, James, Evans, Cole, Cosgrave, Rog, Miss Jones and Mr. Harold Birch and several children. Special hymns and psalms were sung by the choir, under the leadership of Mr. T. D. Todd, who ably presided at the organ. The collections throughout the day were for the Home Mission Fund of the diocese.

Jas. H. Walker states that last week he threshed twenty acres of spring wheat, re Hyfe, and got 1,037 bushels. That is a big return, and all who know Mr. Walker will not doubt his statement. He is also one of our most successful mixed farming believers and has proved his contentions by actual facts. When he has completed the threshing of his bountiful crops we hope to hear more of his returns for this year.

Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Castle took in the concert and box social held at Strathmore last week in aid of the English Church that has recently been built in that place. Mrs. Castle took part in several selections on the program. The concert was a credit to any town ten times the size of Strathmore. The boys up there know how to relieve financial distresses. They showed up their true sport by paying as high as $10 for boxes.

With 95 pupils in attendence at the Gleichen public school we should say we need another teacher. How does the school board think two teachers can handle 95 pupils?

Money is a powerful factor nowadays.

It will buy a position in the world—but it can't buy the breeding necessary to the upholding of that position.

It will buy the good things of life—but it can't buy the appetite to enjoy them.

It will buy superb clothes—but it can't negotiate the proper knack in wearing them.

It will buy a wife—but it can't buy a woman's love.

When a man fails to think that his home town is the best town of its size in the country it is time for him to seek another location.

We have noticed that people who live comfortably in a small town do not wear the worried look of people who claim that a city is the only place to live.

A whole lot of men do just what they want to do and then blame it on "destiny."

Nothing is more charming to see than a young girl, simple, natural, gentle, refined, unaffected and polished in mind and manner. Children should be early taught politeness; and politeness and manners to put on the best dress. True politeness is that which springs from a nice mind and a kind heart, which refuses to wound others by acts of discourtesy. True politeness is rare and more valuable, perhaps, than is often imagined.

Where is my boy tonight? You are his father or mother, and if you desire to lay your hands on your boy within five minutes any night, you wouldn't know where to find him. He is on the street somewhere, or at the railway depot jumping on freight trains, but just where, with whom, in what engaged what plotting or executing for the shrewder ones who plot for him, you could not tell for the life of you. He has a good home and he ought to be there at night. He desires to be somewhere else with the boys, and you lack the moral courage to insist that he shall be where he should be. You hope that he will escape the pitfall, but you know the chances are against him. Why don't you do the boy the kindness to keep him home at night? The time will come when he will thank you for it or reproach you for not doing it.

Percherons for Sale

R. F. Field of the Lee-Metford stables, Calgary, attended the large horse sale held in Miles City, Montana, where he purchased seven beautiful pure bred Percheron mares with foal, bred by W. T. Elwell of Dekalb, Illinois. He is now putting them on the market for sale or will trade for range horses. Illinois is the great state for Percheron horses and these mares are all black, young and sound and broken to harness. For full information write R. F. Field, 132 15th ave. east, Calgary.

Mixed Farming in the West.

Hon. Sydney Fisher, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, has returned to Ottawa after a very extensive trip through the West, and he is "more than satisfied," according to the report which he gives out. Like many other visitors he calls attention to the fact that mixed farming should be more generally gone into, but he says that time will remedy this. Undoubtedly it will, but, in the meantime, every encouragement should be given to these "infant industries" of the western farm. Dairying and hog raising are two branches of agriculture which he specially mentions. The former is already receiving a great deal of attention, and the results are justifying the efforts which are being made.

The criticism regarding hog raising is one which is very general indeed. Just now hogs are commanding fancy prices and comparatively few Alberta farmers have any for sale. There is always a ready market and sometimes a very good market. The dealers import hog products into the West to a degree which should convince the prairie farmers that there is no danger of overstocking the market. As the minister of agriculture points out these conditions are changing, and, as the country settles up, there is little doubt but that other sources of revenue will be derived from the farm beside that of grain raising.

Corner Stone Laying.

The corner stone of the new parliament buildings of Alberta was laid Friday afternoon at Edmonton in the presence of an immense crowd of people from all over the province. Earl Grey handled the trowel, and the leveling of the mortar and tapping of the stone proved that he had long passed the period of apprenticeship in the corner stone laying.

The proceedings commenced with a procession at 2 o'clock, which Earl Grey and party viewed from a stand in front of the Yale hotel. The Governor-General at this point was presented with an address from the City of Edmonton, it being read by Mayor Lee.

At 3 o'clock the corner stone laying took place, and the grandstands as well as every available piece of ground about the new buildings were black with people.

At 9 p. m. the vice-regal party ball took place at the Thistle rink, which was largely attended [illegible] the elite of the city of Edmonton.

Lieutenant-Governor Bulyea was master of ceremonies, opening the proceedings with a few words of welcome. Premier Rutherford followed with an address to the Earl from the province. Then Hon. Mr. Cushing told what the box to be placed in the stone was to contain. The premier handed the Earl a magnificent silver trowel and the corner stone was laid. Earl Grey then addressed the gathering. His speech was particularly happy and inspiring.

The new building faces north. In general it is 427x290 feet; its height 58 feet; to the top of the dome 178 feet. The building is of Calgary cut stone, and the situation is magnificent. The first sod was turned in August, 1907.

Invasion of the West.

An Ottawa despatch says: The report of the immigration branch states that during the last fiscal year the number of arrivals was 146,907, of whom 52,901 came from Great Britain and Ireland; 34,171 from other countries, and 59,832 from the United States. While this total showed a big falling off from the previous year, it has only been exceeded once before in the last dozen years. The total immigration since 1896-7 has been 1,366,650, and stress is laid upon the fact that nearly half the male population which arrived last year was composed of farmers and farm laborers. Immigration from France and Belgium shows a decrease, but those who did come are said to be of a good quality.

It is interesting to note that while immigration from France and Belgium in the seven years ended 1903 only totalled 4,553, in the last six years it has reached a total of 16,192.

During the year 3,803 immigrants were rejected at ocean ports, and 1,718 were deported. The total number of deportations since 1902, when the system went into operation, have been 3,419. Of the deportations 2,007 have been English, 206 Scotch, and 149 Americans.

The annual report of the department of the interior is a remarkable one, which was $3,228,004, an increase of half a million. Of this increase $209,634 was under the head of Dominion lands, owing to the greater amount received on account of pre-emption fees and the increase in the number of homestead entries. The number of homestead entries made during the year was 39,081, involving 6,252,960 acres, as compared with 30,424 entries and 4,867,840 acres in the previous year. This is the largest total in the history of the department, except in 1906, when the number of entries was 41,869. Of the entries last year 19,289 were made by Canadians, 10,522 by Americans, 3,649 by English, 3,331 by Austro-Hungarians, 1,310 Scotch, and the balance by other nationalities.

The greater number of the Americans came from North Dakota and Minneapolis, though 42 States, Alaska, Indian Territory and the District of Columbia were all represented.

The sales of lands by the railway companies and the Hudson Bay Company were much smaller than the average, being only 109,373 acres for $1,211,885, as against 4,229,611 acres for $14,651,757 in 1903, the banner year of sales by railways.

Special Fire Guardians.

Owing to the exceedingly dry fall and the consequent danger from prairie fires the government has thought it advisable to state that in addition to the special fire guardians appointed by the Minister of Agriculture the Prairie Fires Ordinance provides that all councillors of local improvement districts, justices of the peace and all members of the Royal North West Mounted Police are fire guardians within their office, and have power to order out to fight fires "any grown-up male person under sixty years of age (other than postmasters, railway station agents, members of the medical profession, telegraph operators, conductors, engineers, brakesmen, firemen or trainmen) residing or then being within ten miles of a prairie fire or within fifteen miles of a bush fire to proceed at once to the locality of such fire and assist in extinguishing it; and any person neglecting or refusing without lawful excuse to obey any such order shall be guilty of an offence and liable to summary conviction thereof to a penalty not exceeding $5.00.

WOMAN'S CLUBS.

In many towns of this size woman's clubs are numerous, and while they are criticised by some, they are certainly beneficial in many ways. In small towns and villages the club has been a special providence to many a weary mother or to the woman of few and pressing outages and large aspirations. In our great cities women's clubs have been the first to institute social reforms and to call public attention to crying evils. They have controlled superficial and selfish social customs until such customs have become obsolete. In home government and the training of children they long ago struck the key-note of a grand choral of reform which will become more and more harmonious as the years roll by. Out of the selfish "ego" they have evolved the progressive "we." They have strengthened two weak hands with the combined power of twenty or a hundred; they have taken a turbulent gem of thought and polished it until it has been fit for the purest setting in refined gold; they have mastered great difficulties, conquered absurd prejudices, and solved difficult problems; and the grandest work of all has been to the women their own possibilities and the glory of their own heritage.

KEEP OUT OF THE RUT.

"See that sharp-eyed individual over there by the window?" asked my companion, as we took seats in a cafe which prides itself in the number of live ones who take their luncheon at its tables.

"He's worth half a million, and he made it mighty easy."

"How?" I enquired.

"Just keeping out of the ruts," was the quick answer.

"He's the whole works up in the northern town where his factory and shops are located. There's only one thing in the world he's afraid of and that's a rut. Honest, he's so touchy on that point that his teamsters actually have instructions: 'Never drive in the same rut twice.' This business would be dear if it didn't keep out of the ruts. Up there they call him 'Keep-Out-of-the-Rut.'"

"Some say that he got his 'crank ideas' when he was working as a teamster and had a wagon break under his load and get stuck in a rut.

"Anyhow, something just soaked it all through this young man's system that the plan of salvation for the twentieth century was found in the words 'keep-out-of-the-rut.' On that basis he began business in a dinky little shed not big as a village cobbler's shop. It was hard sledding at first, but the men who bought of him found that he always had something new, that he invariably kept ahead of his competitors as the marshal of the day at the head of the march, leading column in a grand parade. And he not only made new things, but he made the old-stander things in new ways and of new materials.

"His little eddy-hole shop grew and grew, until now he's worth about half a million. He's pounded it into every man who works for him that the thing to do is to 'keep out of the rut.'"

The farm hand, the preacher, the mechanic, the artist, the college professor, who sticks to the rut of tradition is the one who is left behind. No matter what your task, see if you cannot keep out of your rut and do it better. And if you can't do it better, do it differently. So long as that does not involve actual loss of efficiency, simply to do it differently is a gain in it self.

J. W. Burn, the proprietor of the Gleichen Horse Exchange has added a wind mill to his pump. He can now use his pump with three kinds of power viz: wind gasoline and hand. The Strathmore and Bow Valley Standard is a fat looking youngster according to the first issue, and shows how the people of Strathmore are willing to make there town a prosperous centre. But still there are a few doubting Thomases who claim Strathmore is too small for such an enterprise, but they will learn the ways of the west. And then there are others who also think it is no snap to run a newspaper. The "Standard" has four pages, with six columns to the page and will be printed weekly. W. Park Evans is the proprietor and John Mackenzie manager.

A very pleasant dance was given in the Foresters Hall Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. William McEwen, who left yesterday to attend school in Ontario. The dance was gotten up by Mr. T. P Fisher and Miss Robertson and proved to be the most enjoyable dance given in town this year by great odds. Tommy Fisher acted as master of ceremonies also as "fools jester", and many a laugh was had at his expense. He was very fasionably dressed, being the only individual who had eye-glasses there that night. Prof. Todd's orchestra rendered the best of music.
